ARTIO

After spending the past year establishing themselves as one of the most prolific and exciting new bands in the country, Artio have been busy in the studio writing and producing the follow up to their critically acclaimed 'Backbone' EP.

'ALL THINGS END' is set to be released into the world at the beginning of June. This stand alone single sees Artio embracing new production techniques which in turn shows a glimpse of what the future might hold for this young act. All of the trade mark Artio sonic signatures are still very much in evidence but with, dare we say it, an even more mature sound both in terms of technical prowess and good old fashioned song writing.

'ALL THINGS END' IS ABOUT THE FEAR OF LOSING SOMEONE AFTER THEY DIE. IT'S ABOUT BEING SO IN LOVE WITH SOMEONE THAT YOU'LL WAIT FOR THEM WHEREVER YOU GO AFTER DEATH, NO MATTER WHAT SPIRITUAL PLAIN YOU END UP IN.'

Artio have gained massive support from all corners of the media including BBC Radio 6 and BBC Introducing. 'Scissor Kill' from the 'Backbone' EP was featured as track of the week on the BBC at the beginning of 2020. The band continue to develop and evolve their live shows and have travelled up and down the country in support of their releases. The launch show for 'Backbone' at The Wardrobe in Leeds was packed out proving that the Artio message is definitely making it's way out into the wider world.
