INDEPENDENT MUSIC NEWS

Artio are set to make waves in the music scene once more with the first single from their summer 2021 campaign 'YOUR NAME'. This is Artio with the dial turned well past 11 but still imbuing that trademark Artio recipe for fierce beats coupled with a staggering vocal performance.

'Your Name' is the first track that queer front-woman Hol has written about being openly bisexual since coming out in 2020. It's about momentarily falling in love with someone, knowing you may never see them again and just wanting to know their name.

The rise of Artio over the past two years, since their inception has been incredible. The band are still in their teens and have graced stages large and small all over the UK. They have achieved national radio coverage around the world with over 250,000 spotify streams and with interest from high level management, this is just the beginning of Artio's journey so make sure you are strapped in for one hell of a ride.
